Examples of opaque shielding would include solid metal or plastic, while translucent would include alabaster glass, smoked glass, or glass tinted darkly enough to block all of the details, including outline, of the lamp from view while turned on, but that still allows some light to pass through.

Fixture, Partially Shielded (or Partial Cut-off):

A fixture that does not project light in an upward direction, and in which shielding is provided to (or below) the plane of the centerline of the light-producing portion of the light bulb (lamp). Fixtures constructed in this manner will not allow more than ten percent (10%) of the light produced to be directed above the horizontal plane at the lowest point of the light emission source (which is the light bulb or lamp). The shielding that extends to or beyond the centerline plane of the lamp may be opaque (no light passes through) or translucent (only diffused light passes through.)

Fixture, Unshielded:

Floodplain, *Cross-Section:

A cross section is a graphical description of the stream and the floodplain at a particular point along the stream. It is taken at right angles to the flow of the stream. At each cross section, the engineer has accurate information on the size and geometry of the channel, the shape of the floodplain, and the changes in the elevation of the ground. Cross sections are taken of the floodplain at locations along the stream that are representative of local conditions. Cross sections are taken at each bridge or other major obstruction and at other locations, depending on how much the stream or adjacent floodplain conditions change. The more changes there are in topography (perhaps steep riverbanks changing to large flat overbank areas), the more cross sections are needed to define the floodplain accurately.

Cross –Section with Flood Elevations (image: FEMA)

Floodplain, Fill:

By nature, floodplains are low-lying areas which seem to invite filling activities. Filling is included under the NFIP definition of “development” and therefore requires a floodplain development permit. Care should be taken to ensure that the fill will not alter drainage or divert flood waters to other properties.

Flood Fringe:

That area of the floodplain exclusive of the floodway area; plus that portion of the floodplain that could be completely obstructed without increasing the water surface elevation of the base flood more than one (1) foot at any point.

(image: <http://ecystage.ecy.wa.gov/programs/sea/floods/pdf/floodplainmgrsguidebook.pdf>)
